Arizona Business Owner Documents Two-Year Consumer Dispute Following Online Vehicle Purchase

PHOENIX, Arizona — Arizona business owner Toby Dion has launched WeDriveYouUnhappy.com, a consumer information website documenting his experience following the purchase of a used diesel pickup truck through Carvana.

The website presents a chronological timeline supported by photographs, repair invoices, service records, inspection reports, correspondence, and other documentation related to the vehicle and the efforts made to resolve the matter directly with the company.

According to Dion, he spent more than a year attempting to escalate his concerns through Carvana's customer service channels before deciding to publish the documentation in a publicly accessible format. The website is intended to allow journalists, consumers, and industry professionals to independently review the available evidence.

Beyond his individual experience, Dion hopes the website will become a resource where other consumers can submit their own documented vehicle experiences. The goal is to identify common patterns and make factual information available to consumer advocates, regulators, journalists, and qualified legal professionals.

Dion is available for television, radio, podcast, print, and online interviews and is willing to provide complete access to the documentation referenced on the website.
